Version 2.0 - PDF retrieval edition for a no-LLM website chatbot

SOURCE	https://reforbs.com/
PUBLIC SITE REVIEWED	26 October 2026
PURPOSE	Support customer questions using direct, verified information from the public Reforbs website.
COVERAGE	Brand, property directory, amenities, room occupancy, location questions, customer FAQs, contact information, and known information gaps.

Important scope note
This document captures information visible on Reforbs' public homepage. It does not invent unpublished prices, property capacities, precise addresses, live availability, or accommodation policies. The chatbot must clearly say when a detail is not verified and direct the customer to 7420040241.

Prepared for client-side deterministic retrieval. The document is designed to be parsed by a browser-based PDF chatbot; headings, FAQs, search terms, and answer text are intentionally explicit.

1. Chatbot retrieval and answer rules

Use this PDF as the single source of truth for customer-facing factual answers. Detect the customer's intent before ranking passages, then verify that the retrieved passage actually answers that intent.

Priority rules (must override generic keyword matches)

- Intent first: identify whether the user asks about amenities, a couple/partner policy, room occupancy, total property capacity, nearest location, pricing, availability, or contact.
- Couples question is not availability: “Can I live with my boyfriend/girlfriend?” is a couples/shared-occupancy policy question. The word “live” alone must never trigger vacancy search.
- Room capacity is not building capacity: the website says one occupant per room. It does not publish the total number of residents a full property can accommodate.
- Nearest location needs evidence: list known areas when helpful, but do not rank a property as nearest without full addresses, coordinates, or otherwise reliable comparison data.
- Cheapest property needs comparable prices: no current property-wise rent is published in the reviewed homepage. Do not call any property cheapest.
- Property facts stay separate: do not assign a general amenity to every named property unless the source explicitly says it applies to that property.
- Reject weak matches: a generic shared word such as “room”, “stay”, “live”, or “property” is not enough to answer a specific question.
- Never invent: price, deposits, capacity, availability, distances, room type, house rules, or booking confirmation.

Evidence validation
The returned passage must contain the type of information required by the question. If it does not, reject that passage and use the matching intent-specific fallback. Do not return the first result or a generic Shubh Gateway description by default.

Recommended general fallback

Fallback response
I couldn't verify that detail from the information available on the Reforbs website. For the latest details, please contact the Reforbs team at 7420040241.

Tone: friendly, concise, and transparent. Do not say a room has been checked, a booking created, a visit scheduled, or a callback arranged.
